Infinancials and Infront in product tie-up

Infinancials, leader in international fundamental data and screening tools, and Infront, specialist in trading and information systems, today announced a partnership that will enable Infront's clients to access infinancials' key service for brokers, traders and asset managers, Corporatefocus Trader.

Infront's clients will link through to Corporatefocus Trader to browse and screen fundamental data on 25 000 companies worldwide. Users can also create and manage precise peer groups, or filter the entire database according to key financial and sector criteria.

Corporatefocus is already widely used by M&A experts, financial analysts, money managers and corporate strategists to determine the profitability and financial health of a company, in the past, present and future. Corporatefocus Trader is a complementary product for Infront's "The Online Trader" – a real-time platform for trading and market data.

"We are delighted to be partnering with the fastest growing seller of real-time data licences in Scandinavia. We look forward to raising our profile in the Nordic region whilst also offering Infront clients access to an international platform for data and analysis," said Phillippe Dalger, Business Development Director at infinancials

"Corporatefocus Trader is a very good product. By providing clients with Corporatefocus Trader, Infront will be able to further strengthen the position to existing customers and to reach out to new segments and users, leading to further growth. With this partnership we are looking at a 'win-win-win' situation for all parties," commented Joachim Rosli, Head of Sales and Business Development at Infront.

TradeTech 2006

If you are going to TradeTech 2006 in Paris (25-27 April), The 6th Institutional Equity Trading & Technology Summit, look out for Infront who will be showing Corporatefocus Trader and The Online Trader at the event.
